Your comments

My garden is immediately adjacent to the proposed application. Just over a year ago, 2 airconditioning units and an extractor were installed at first floor level overlooking my garden, which are both unsightly and put out foul air and cooking smells and well as making a constant loud hum. I have complained on numerous occasions about moving them further in, to be told that they do not require permission and they would be moved if I paid the expensive bill. A further two units would be totally intolerable. I enclose pictures.

Dear Anna, I would be most grateful if you would consider the effect that these air conditioning units will have on the use and enjoyment of my garden, and the existing equipment as well.

I enclose photos showing these installations and their overpowering presence. This is clearly not acceptable when moving them out of sight/smell/hearing, would only be a question of several metres.

Yours faithfully
