There should be considerations made for the wildlife on the canal as the area on that side of the canal is used for nesting and breeding by ducks and geese, the same birds return each year. It would be a nice addition for the new residents who will live in the buildings, and for the wildlife, if there was some green grassed open space, along the edge of the canal. Also there are many bats in the area, so consideration of 'homes' for bats would be good.
