Clearly the planning system merely delays every attempt to find a use for this part of Camden. Why not let the applicants get on with some usefull activity? Instead of simply making economic life as difficult as possible?

It is a pity that a serious benefit to society like a shop on Camden Road is to be replaced by a restaurant. Something is wrong with the economic environment. The equity in a retail outlet should be owned by the owner so that the trading is not dominated by the rent. Planning has to address this issue.
