And it is such a shame that this market is currently closed for what appears to be "architectural reasons"! I for one am quite passionate about architecture and having traded there and sat in the square having lunch, I have never been bothered by the market stalls, which on the contrary have been designed and laid out to fit very nicely within the space. We have been on many local markets and events around London and in Camden over the years, and I must say that Real Food Market tops it all in terms of organisation, cleanliness, ethics and of course, produce! The atmosphere that this market creates in the square is just unique and I fully support that they are given permission to resume as soon as possible.
