Damage has already been done to our homes, cracks appearing etc. More stress and vibration will only add to this. More houses = more vehicle traffic = increase risk to the public esp. in Little Green Street. The current development has already taken too long and causes constant detriment to those who work from home, why add further misery. The houses are at a price point where they add no social value to Camden Camden Council already rejected the initial project, using the same values, this should also be rejected.
2016/4109/P	Dr Alan Marsh and Dame Jil Matheson	11 College Lane	16/09/2016 16:11:29	COMMNT	This project has always been a gross overdevelopment, chief among the reasons Camden Council cited for rejecting the original application, later overruled by the Planning Inspectorate. It is now proposed to add five new dwellings to the estate, in an area already suffering too great an increase in population density from other developments and conversions. This new activity will also lengthen the period of construction, which is causing considerable distress to the surrounding residents.
