2017/0265/A	Rochester Conservation Area	5 Rochester Terrace	02/02/2017 10:15:00	OBJ	While a bus shelter is of value to waiting passengers, a large illuminated advertisement would be unwelcome. Camden Road was built through an Act of Parliament in 1826. On either side were built Regency squares and crescents which are protected as conservation areas. It runs directly downhill to cross the very old road of St Pancras Way and particularly on the east side there are old villa houses with large trees. Advertisements would spoil the street scene and view, as well as making confusing sightlines for motorists on this difficult hill which has a bus lane, pedestrian crossings and a major school.
