NO Plan Alerts today do far 11:55am, Regards, Elaine Chambers

What is interesting and your IT department will no doubt be able, now we have identified the issue, to explain this to you. We are just beginning to realise what's been happening and it's not just confined to my browser:-

Note: your email yesterday Ms Beaumont didn't have 100Ave in it when I scrolled down. However, when I scrolled up, it was there high lighted in yellow! I have had it explained. Your IT dept will now realise that because they are sending out truncated emails many people's browsers are not picking up the 100Ave applics. This is a problem we are seeing on both in Windows computers and Apple macs.

The IT techs ought really have had the nouse to reaslise that this was the problem instead of leaving it to be identified by the recipients who in spite of not being IT experts have now identified this matter for them. Maybe you need to update your IT team?

As a consequence of this further glitch, and as a good will gesture from the council with whom we have little trust in relation to Essential Living(EL) with whom we have enough sense not to trust, it would be best to re-issue their Application: 2016/6699/P

It is evident to us, if not to you, that while this glitch has occurred, EL have slipped in another attempt to get permission to abolish 100Ave before the underground method of construction has been fully and properly checked, reported and verified. This, so far, has not been achieved. Therefore condition 31 has not been satisfied.

EL have been yet again (tut! tut!) trying to get away with demolishing the building before all the foundation plans are complete.

Camden council, you must be alert to EL's tactics or you could leave use with a derelict site for years to come. You will indisputably be be blamed if you let this demolition go ahead without all the construction detailes being made very, very, clear. This must not be allowed to happen.

Re: application: 2016/6699/P 100 Avenue Rd .
Developers Essential Living

Plans for this Applic are not complete. No decision can be made by Camden until all plans are completed. I wish to be reassured in writing by Mr Cassidy (or any replacement for him who might claim not to have known) and also backed up by Ms Beaumont that Camden will carry out its responsibility on this matter.

This application has been extended by the developers adding closure of the market, change of access to Swiss Cottage tube.

Please note, and again acknowledge in writing to me this Variation on the original application should and must now be properly re-registered. Consequently this then must become open to public consultation, site notices, press notices, will be needed and the new application brought to the planning committee again for thorough consultation.

I shall also expect to see my concerns here set up on the website within the next few days.

Regards, Elaine Chambers

Subject: Planning comments missing today

9th Feb 2017 Dear Ms Beaumont, I've had my Plan Alerts for today, 9th Feb'17 but cannot access today's [the 9th] comment objections, mine included; I get this notice which I've copied here below. To emphasis again, today is the 9th Feb. We are now wondering if this will cause further glitches these coming weeks. This is getting very tedious! Regards, Elaine Chambers
