Visiting the exhibit explaining the development, it was clear the the development has been well researched and has many positive impacts on the local community. Without damaging Koko's iconic look or the way it fundamentally functions and instead embracing these features, this application has a positive impact on many groups. These include the local community (through open access studios) residents (the hotel will mean that staff/performers won't need to make noisy journeys after late shows) and Koko's core and new customer base (by offering new experiences through the bar and hotel but keeping performance at its focus). All queries that I had (such as impact on local transport during development) we're well answered and clearly thought through. In short, this development will be a great addition to Camden.
