Camden Council appears to be very active in the conservation and enhancement of the environment. Therefore, in answer to its question on its "Green Camden" page: "Do you have a great idea about how to make Camden greener?" My answer is yes - do not allow the felling (for what appears no good reason) of these long established trees that have formed part of the landscape for over a century. I feel this could almost be considered an act of environmental vandalism and goes against everything the council appears to be trying to achieve for the borough.
