2017/4203/P	Moir Duckworth	24 Achilles Road London NW6 1EA	14/08/2017 15:02:10	OBJEMPER	I have no objection in principle to my new neighbours' wish to renovate no. 26 Achilles Road. I do however have concerns about their plans to remove the chimney breasts on two floors adjoining the party wall of my property. The wall is only one brick thick and I am concerned about the destabilising effect the demolition of the chimney breasts might have. The application states that there are no trees which might fall on the new extension. There is a largish bay tree within or very close to the actual area of the extension; and there is an enormous bay tree at the end of the garden, which if it fell might well hit the extension.
