2017/4322/P	Jason Watkins	212A Camden Road Camden London	20/08/2017 16:01:20	COMMNT	I broadly welcome the plans and designs for a new two story dwelling at 59 Camden Mews. I am pleased to see that the design appears to be modern and sympathetic to the area. Using similar materials to neighbouring buildings and for its of architectural merit. I have one issue with the design. On the first floor, the main bedroom has a window which spans the corner of the North Easterly facing wall and the North facing wall. Essentially the rear wall and the adjacent wall, that faces 61 Camden Mews. The window section on the rear wall looks down on to our neighbours garden. However the side wall window, will look directly down in to the communal garden area of our property; With it's astroturf and wendyhouse and children's play area. I feel this would be an invasion of privacy, as it would look directly in to a family area form above. Perhaps this window could exist only on the rear wall and not 'turn the corner'. Or if it did turn the corner, the section of the window overlooking our garden, could be frosted.
