Hi Robert,

No problem. The changes are very minor. The surround on the back windows is slightly different to pick up on construction details. Also the floor to ceiling height has reduced by 60mm. Again to pick up on construction details. I wanted to amend the drawings to pick up on this because there was some reference made to the floor to ceiling height in the original application.

The only difference externally is the rear elevation. I have attached these side by side which may make it slightly clearer. The change may be so minor that the drawings do not need amending?

Kind regards
Lee
