

73 Maygrove road

View from Bedroom window in ground floor flat looking East across the courtyard (Camden's new Kingsgate school is beyond) with mid summer Early morning sun coming into the courtyard,

This view will remain exactly the same is the lift is built. Interestingly the VSC only calculates that only 9,4% of the sky in this view is visible. This may be scientifically correct, but it is a big view, a long view and an open outlook that most terrace houses in london do not have.

