Dear Laura Hazelton,

In October 2014 and since I have written to object to the proposed new roof extension at this address.

The latest proposal does nothing to meet these objections.

Any planning application which affects the terrace at Colville Place must take account of the proportions of the terrace as a whole, and protect the setting and context of listed buildings. In no 1 Colville Place, you have a rare example of a contemporary listed building, whose distinction is officially recognised precisely because of the way it combines modernist idiom with a sensitive relation to its setting, so that the unity of the terrace is preserved.

The disproportionate proposed roof would destroy precisely that harmony and unity which has earned Colville Place its special status.

Yours faithfully,

Alix MacSweeney
