2.4 Context Survey

In contrast to the generally consistent style of Edwardian red brick architecture within the Glenloch sub area, Glenilla Road has a varied and inconsistent appearance, particularly in the immediate context of 30 Glenilla Road. This part of the Conservation Area was developed later, around the time of the second world war.

The buildings in the immediate context of the site are as shown on the left and as listed below:

1. 34 Glenilla Road
2. Church and garage
3. 30 Glenilla Road
4. 28a & 28b Glenilla Road
5. 28 Glenilla Road
6. Sussex House
7. 12 Glenilla Road

The buildings to the east of the site are more traditional in style with pitched roofs and red brick whereas to the west the architecture is more recent with flat roofs and examples of more modern materiality.
