Regarding the Planning Application for
Construction of a basement extension

I am very worried that the building will fall down when all this work is being done. When you look at the house you will see that because of the clay soil which the house is located it has already sloped due to the ground movement and is now slightly tilting towards number 51, our boundary neighbor.

Furthermore, this is a historic listed building listed on a conservation area, I am afraid that the structural integrity of the building will be compromised due to the underground excavation and I would like consent for the plans to be ahead not to be given as there is a risk of the building tilting further or collapsing.

Could you please help me by giving me guidance of how to oppose to the plans?
Thanks,
