Sirs

Just wondering if you are in a position to respond to our e-mail below, and advise if the basement proposal will affect your assets?

Our client is anxious to secure planning for the project.

Thank you in anticipation.

Regards, Nigel

Sirs

Our client is currently seeking planning permission to install single storey deep basement (approximately 3m deep) to the rear of the above property thus laterally extending an existing basement which extends over much of the building.

The attached plan shows the proposals.

The following plan shows where we think your assets are and the location of the property (edged in red) based on an 1895 map.

Rachel,

This is a tricky one as we have a disused subway away from this site along the road (Gray's Inn Road) which cannot be produced on a map.

Therefore I suggest that you consult us again when you have the details of the boreholes.

Good morning

Apologies, no it's a standard email we send out. At present there are no plans to drill holes etc we just require plans of where the assets are so when the plans are drawn up assets can be avoided.

Many thanks

Rachel,

If you intend drilling bore-holes, please provide a plan of the actual site with the bore-hole locations, width and depths clearly annotated. Please also indicate the method of undertaking the borehole i.e. rotary, percussive etc.

This is to enable us to provide you with the correct information.

Kind regards
Shahina
