2018/1209/P	Mark Connell	10/08/2018 17:43:55	OBJ	I am against the changes to this pub. We are losing our heritage here. Heritage does not have to be just for the upper classes but for all. This place may not be trendy or some manor house but it is an integral part of all that was, is and should be Camden. We need diversity not only in work life but also leisure. We are becoming homogenized and keeping somewhere like the Good Mixer (intact) is essential
2018/1209/P	Dawn	10/08/2018 17:22:20	OBJ	I oppose the proposed plans to change the Good Mixer. This pub is part of Camden's music heritage, there are too many pubs closing down and we are losing our history and culture. This pub is loved by tourists as well as the regulars, changing it into a basement bar is restricting the type of visitors it currently attracts and is another landmark lost.

2018/1209/P	Jennifer Brown	11/08/2018 13:54:28	OBJ	The Good Mixer is a wonderful pub which has been my 'local' for almost 20 years. When I first moved to London I instantly took to it. I met most of my best friends there and still frequent it today. I was heartbroken when it recently closed down and was thrilled to see it reopen with subtle yet tasteful improvements the new owners have made - a slightly more grown up pub but still maintaining its former appeal. It's one of the few places left with any meaning to me and also with a great history of British music. For my dear friend who founded the Rock'n'Roll Walking Tour, this is a highlight on her stops along with the likes of The Dublin Castle and The Electric Ballroom. We should be hanging onto these gems and not cleaning them up, clearing them out or destroying them. Long live The Good Mixer and Camden Town!
