Back garden next to the boundary wall

1/ Horse chestnut; the tree is growing close to the boundary wall, The tree looks to have been previously thinned and cut back in places, it is quite large and spreading and dominates that end of the garden. Cut back over the garden by 3 metres and thin the remains crown by 20%

2/ eucalyptus: small tree approximately 8 metres tall, growing in the first rear area. Reduce by half it's height to encourage the tree to become more compact.

Yours faithfully

C. HOWARD
