2019/1070/P	Justin Barrington	01/04/2019 20:54:18	OBJ	I live at college court next door to this site. Currently, there is very low number of visitors to this building. Putting a clinic there will result in significantly more visitors. I have no doubt a number of those visitors will attempt to use our private car park which will cause significant friction. I also find it absurd that mental health patients should be accessing a clinic through an area where I regularly see children playing. Finally, the application twists and bends the reality. Surely if the top floor is therapy, then the other space will be part of that even if it's just for their own use. If granted, I have little doubt the other floors will be encroached on in the future, increasing the number of people further. This is all really bad for the local residents. Especially the people who live at 39..

2019/1070/P	Cara Lowy	01/04/2019 19:36:22	OBJEMPER	Dear Mr Benmbarek,

My name is Cara. I am sixteen years old and live in House 4, 39 College Crescent. I am writing to you because I would like to object to the planning application of Dr Silvert to turn the office in 39 College Crescent into a psychiatric clinic. As you might know the office in College Crescent was rented by "Lily's Kitchen" in the past and the five or six office workers were like another family in our little community. They had two dogs who played with our dogs and we took in each others parcels and we all knew each other.

By changing this office into a clinic our community would be terribly affected because instead of sharing our private space with five or six persons that are known to us, we would have ten therapists and all of their patients walking in and out of our private courtyard all day long.

There is not access into the office building from the road, therefor all the patients would have to enter our private courtyard so they could find their way into the clinic. Our courtyard is kept very clean and has pretty planting as well as toys for the children in our residential community. Once patients have completed their meetings or whilst their are waiting for their appointments to come up they will inevitably feel invited to sit down and enjoy the sunshine which will lead to large amounts of people that we don't know mixing with us kids in the courtyard. They will for sure leave behind their empty coffee cups and crisp packets as well. Even if Mr Silvert promised to inform his patients that they can't stay on in our courtyard or leave litter behind, there will be nobody to enforce that. It would be terribly unfair to us children (we are eight kids under ten and two under 18) to lose that little bit of outside space because Mr Silvert wants to operate a clinic in the wrong place.

I personally would also feel very unsafe because our houses have very large windows that face the courtyard and hundreds of people would then be able
