

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	12/04/2019 12:17:37	COMMENT

Response:

Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do not

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	12/04/2019 12:18:55	COMMENT

Response:

Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do not

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	13/04/2019 20:24:08	OBJNOT	Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do not

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	13/04/2019 20:24:27	OBJNOT	Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do no

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	13/04/2019 20:24:32	OBJNOT

Response:

Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do no

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	13/04/2019 20:24:58	OBJNOT	Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do no

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2019/1710/L	Uma Baska	13/04/2019 20:32:27	OBJNOT	Hello Samir

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] We are the residents closest to the proposed changes. I am writing to you as we are hugely concerned about the prospect of the plans put forward.

So you have our background.. my family is made of our one year old, four year old and my husband and I with grandparents and cousins who visit for long periods. We are a really family oriented group, and have very much enjoyed moving to this area. We bought the house just over 6 years ago, and had Logan, our eldest, and Keshav, our youngest, with the plan of staying here until they grow and ourselves staying on through retirement for the childrens use still then. We love the area and enjoy the culture and the ability to have a small family house with little noise and privacy in such an area. It was with this in mind that we purchased it.

A key aspect of our home purchase was the privacy the back courtyard and buildings of Ching Court provided our family. I wanted a space where no one looked into our house so that our children would feel free. It was a conscious decision and a decision between other apartments in parts of London where there is privacy onto squares. The proposed changes would have the new apartment residents able to look into every floor of our house. For example, the children's room is at the back of the house and they will have direct sight onto them sleeping. We leave the childrens windows open for fresh air, and this is very important to me that I do not change this

The mixed use of the buildings in Ching Court, some for offices (such as the current use of the ones under discussion), is key to this privacy. When the children are bathed and on their way to bed, they have no sense they are in a vibrant area such as Covent Garden. They have full privacy and the back courtyard is completely quiet and safe. No one is looking in from the building under discussion. I do not
