2019/3188/P	Pamela Todd	15/07/2019 10:38:11	OBJEMAIL	I am surprised this ugly plastic tree needs anyone to complain. It is completely out of place in this beautiful genuine tree-lined conservation area. Of all the ridiculous things we have to endure in Hampstead, I think this has to be the daftest. I imagine it will turn blue after a period of time as do all plastic plants. Then what happens?

2019/3188/P	S Tilbury	15/07/2019 11:44:54	OBJ	I am lost for words that this application has been made. I live on Well Road and could not believe that someone had installed a plastic tree! Environmentally we need really trees/plants. Conservation area - no plastic trees. It's an eye saw and everyone who walks but stops to look and comment.

2019/3188/P	Eleanor Tattersfield	15/07/2019 18:47:05	COMMNT	This object is one of the most objectionable things I have ever seen allowed On any street let alone one in a conservation area near the Heath.
2019/3188/P	Kenneth Pyne	15/07/2019 10:24:42	OBJ	I object most strongly to this application as it is ludicrous, ugly and totally out of keeping with this conservation area.
2019/3188/P	Gilbert Hall	15/07/2019 12:01:54	OBJ	I object to this artificial tree. The part of 14 Well Road that it's attached to is a "planter". Presumably the planter got planning permission as such. But it contains no soil and this pretend tree is not a plant. The artificial tree is regarded as a joke locally. It's obvious that it isn't real. It's underneath a London plane tree and in autumn it will fill with rotting leaves. It certainly isn't in keeping with the conservation area.
2019/3188/P	Sarah	15/07/2019 20:31:28	OBJ	Plastic should be made illegal in this country let alone an ugly plastic tree in a conservation area! Camden must be ahead of the curve and not let this eye sore remain.. It looks as ugly as the house. Frankly both should be knocked down and planted with REAL native trees. We live in a society where we try to actively encourage people to plant trees, flower verges in public spaces so we can attract our songbirds and pollinating insects back and ban PLASTIC! 14 Well Road has done the complete opposite. It's abhorrent and I hope you do the right thing and get it removed.
2019/3188/P	G McKenna	15/07/2019 21:02:18	OBJ	Trees are very important for air quality, the environment and habitat creation. A plastic tree brings none of the benefit or joy of an actual tree.

2019/3188/P	SusanGrossman	15/07/2019 21:03:14	OBJ	Objectionable not only on grounds of bad taste Out of the question in a conservation area. Out of keeping with the environment. An eyesore and could be a precedent for much worse. If it was a giant gnome would it be allowed. Lowers the tone of the neighbourhood. Not in keeping with its historic roots. Out of keeping with local architecture. Environmentally unfriendly. Just awful
2019/3188/P	Claudia goldstein	15/07/2019 10:10:52	COMMNT	This plastic tree resembles Disney land! It is ugly, uneco friendly, and not in keeping with nature, the heath and hampstead. It's a pathetic eye sore and surely Camden must see this as a permanent structure not welcomed in well road/hampstead Plant a real tree for birds and nature ...this is what is needed...not this ridiculous laughable eye sore. Environmentally friendly and unobtrusive surely is the criteria here.
