Dear Sir

I'm writing to voice my concern over the removal of the plane tree in the garden of 85 St Augustine's Rd.

We live at [REDACTED] and have recently lost a large tree at the rear of our home which has totally changed the rear aspect from our balcony and the rooms at the rear of our flat. Our concern is the removal of this particular tree will further spoil the previous fantastic feeling of being in the countryside. It's such an unusually generous space, such a gift in London and was one of the reasons we bought our home. It seems a shame to totally lose a tree if there is any way of controlling its size without cutting it down.

Of course, if it is in some way compromising the safety of someone else's home that is a different choice.

I look forward to hearing your response

Kind regards

Ms Sam French & Dr R Fishwick
