Subject: Re: URGENT RE: Comments to be posted on Camden's website for public scrutiny.

Dear Jonathan

Thank you for your prompt reply

I know of one person using microsoft E who only had only menu bars. I'm using both Safari and Chrome and intermittently only the menu bars show up - oddly. I don't know what other peoples' browsers are but several people have told me that they have found and now again find the website very confusing. I do see that that there is another link further down but whilst it is clear I don't think it is prominent enough (a big yellow box would have worked better). It would be so easy for Camden to send the new website address to everyone who has not yet complained or asked to be unsubscribed. I could send it out to the Save Swiss Cottage list but you may have addresses I don't have and I don't think it fair that the job of making things easier for people to find or understand should be down to me.

I know several people sent emails out to EL also included Camden. At least these could be uploaded with impunity? I cannot recall what exactly is missing from EL's feedback summary - I know some of what I've written is missing so I'll send all my questions/comments to you again for uploading.

To save everyone having to always scrutinise everything again from scratch - an Amendments Tracker would be helpful to show whatever changes there may be yet to come. There used to be one for the current CMP.

Best wishes

Janine Sachs
