In this way existing plants which help reduce pollution can be recycled and not simply destroyed. Equally Camden will be able to access a source of virtually zero cost plants which can further enhance the Living areas around Camden. With the destruction of the existing conservatory comma can this also be applied to any older bricks which might be used to create features on Camden Estates, for example, South End Green. In this way old materials can be preserved and given new life to enhance other areas of the Camden environments at little or no cost full stop for example comma a barbecue pits can be constructed from old bricks or similar.
