If I have understood this, the developers are proposing to pay an undisclosed sum to Camden instead of providing the required affordable housing in this development because they cannot find someone to manage the two units that were originally specified. In their application they mention the state of the market - the implication that they should pay a lower sum. This is ridiculous - in NW3 the market is doing just fine. There is a shortage of property for sale (as I experience by having flyers put through my door on a very regular basis by estate agents seeking properties to sell). But far more importantly there is a massive shortage of affordable housing in the neighbourhood. How will the sum being paid to the Council remedy that?
