Dear Mr Farrant,

I appreciate that this is not a planning issue in itself but I think there is concern with the credibility of Mr Reynolds observations touched on by Mr McMahon. Mr Reynolds' claim that he visited No 7, is misleading. Mr Reynolds did not actually visit No 7. He took photographs surreptitiously without my client's permission by leaning over the wall from No 9 (photograph attached) and due to that method can only have had a limited sight and perspective and is unable to provide a credible view which should be taken into consideration in assessing the weight of Mr Reynolds' observations.

Kind regards,
