Why do you consider that a Lawful Development Certificate should be granted for this proposal?

I live in a conservation area (Dartmouth Park, in the London Borough of Camden) and wanted to ensure that it's OK to fit solar panels to my roof. My local borough planning officer advised me to apply for a Proposed Lawful Development Certificate.

The installation will be done by First4Solar under the Solar Together scheme, sponsored by several London boroughs, including Camden. I will attach the survey reports to this application. Obviously, this is an important issue because of the climate emergency.

For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.

Do any of the above statements apply?
