Informative(s):

- 1 The Eastman Dental Clinic is a grade II listed building designed by Sir John Burnett and built between 1928-31. The building has an elegant composition in the Beaux-Art tradition, it is built on a steel frame with elevations of brown brick. Much of the impressive historic interiors survive.

Recent planning and listed building consent applications with references 2019/2879/P and 2019/2880/L gave permission for the building to be used by the Institute of Neurology. Substantial alterations will take place as a result of the proposals however the majority of historic fabric will remain.

The current application is for the removal of asbestos that is embedded in modern internal partition walls. Removal of the walls is already consented within listed building consent application 2019/2880/L.

The application also seeks consent for the erection of temporary partitions while the building works take place. The partitions are located away from windows and are sensitively held in place.

The alterations will not harm any historic fabric but will facilitate the building works already approved on the site.

The site's planning history has been taken into account in making this decision.

Special attention has been paid to the desirability of preserving the special interest of the listed building, under s.16 of the Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas Act 1990 as amended by the Enterprise and Regulatory Reform Act (ERR) 2013

As such, the proposal is in general accordance with policy D2 of the Camden Local Plan 2017. The proposed development also accords with the London Plan 2016 and the NPPF.
