The flair and creativity of the design as well as the thoughtful approach to the surroundings and historical context amount to a unique project which should be supported by Camden. Specifically i think the soft lines of the design and inventive use of materials create a lovely contrast to the new building development further down the road, and would enhance the overall feel of the street. Having visited the existing house, it is clear this new building will provide superior accommodation for many years to come. Many architects live in the borough of Camden and it would be great to see more examples of self-initiated projects which express a clarity of vision of uncompromised approach to residential design.
