In This Town High Street has a number of betting shops in place already making the removal of one more, insignificant. However a tanning shop recently closed on Kentish Town High Street making room for the opening of this new store. Tanning shops if used correctly can offer a good psychological boost to wellbeing. For example, the reduction of the impact of s a d seasonally adjusted disorder can be mitigated by a brief tanning session (sunbed). I am supporting this application as it does not increase the number of retail units no markedly decreased the availability of services to the local community.
