

DESIGN AND ACCESS STATEMENT FOR THE EGGSLUT LONDON

The new signage does not involve any redevelopment to the structure of the building. We are just renewing the old signage to keep in line with the surrounding area

The signage at the property has been thought about and needs to be sympathetic to the building and will not encroach on any architectural features such window mullions or lintels

All the signs are manufactured to a high standard so that they have a long life span. They are in traditional colours in keeping with the area

The access to the site will not be affected in any way
