It is so sad what had already happened with Tin Pan Alley destroyed, Astoria flattened and the soul knocked out of the place with the tacky outernet debacle coming in which will in a very short amount of time be an outdated embarrassment . No more changing of the landscape here - no roof extension , no residential property development - let's try and preserve what little of this important historical area Camden council have left behind after selling off the neighbourhood and cosying up to the corporates in recent years. All these short term opportunistic and ill judged decisions have killed a special location that had evolved for centuries - Shame on Camden council for killing off history.
