PVC u double glazed to 4X front elevation windows

Just a reminder that this address is within the South Hampstead Conservation Area.

PVC is not considered to be an appropriate material for front windows in these late Victorian houses. The difference from wood is discernable + also plastic does mellow to a yellow colour after some years.

It has been refused in this area Since it was considered to be a Conservation Area in 1988.

The local residents' association wish to retain the integrity of this area where the buildings are of architectural interest.

Internal secondary glazing is possible without changing the windows - I have some.
