Sirs

I was brought up within a moment's walk from 38 Frogmal Lane therefore feel it right to comment on the reprehensible application and decision to demolish the existing house, and to build a huge, characterless pile in its stead.

I am moved to ask what motivation does Camden Council and its planners have to allow such a damaging plan to progress as far as it has?

What is the role of Camden Council in this?

Does Camden actually need a staff of planners if they are going to permit more damage than good?

When did it stop being the role of Camden's planners to protect what is attractive and historic and to side with the destructors?

Yours faithfully
Jeremy Segal-Jackson
