Reason: In order to safeguard the special architectural and historic interest of the building in accordance with the requirements of policy D2 of the Camden Local Plan 2017.

Informative(s):

- 1 The Dunboyne Estate is grade II listed designed by Neave Brown and constructed in 1971-77. The estate contains 71 dwellings with a mixture of three and two bedroom maisonettes and one bedroom flats. The houses are built from concrete blockwork and are rendered. The windows and doors are in dark-stained timber.

No 50 has horizontal cracking along the southern internal walls and lateral displacement of the flank wall. This is due to the proximity of this part of the building to a railway tunnel which is weakening the foundations of the building and affecting its stability.

Structural engineers have investigated and have recommended carbon plates are inserted into the floors to provide additional strengthening and support to the southern wall. The plates span the width of no.50 and no.51 to create the optimum reinforcement.

In order to insert the plates, all joinery is removed and protected, the concrete screen floor is broken up and alternate breeze blocks are removed. The carbon plates are then inserted. The concrete screed is re-laid and breeze blocks reinserted. The cracks in the walls are tied together with a helibar system. All joinery is then put back into position.

The carbon plates run within a gap between the kitchen units, the kitchen joinery will therefore remain unaltered and unharmed.

The works will ensure the structural stability of the wall and will have no impact on the significant elements of the building.

The proposed works will not harm the special interest of the grade-II-listed building.

The site's planning history has been taken into account in making this decision.

Special attention has been paid to the desirability of preserving the special interest of the listed building, under s.16 of the Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas Act 1990 as amended by the Enterprise and Regulatory Reform Act (ERR) 2013

As such, the proposal is in general accordance with policy D2 of the Camden Local Plan 2017. The proposed development also accords with the London Plan 2021 and the NPPF.
