I think hiding it with planting would be better – and the large windows facing the house make it visually intrusive. Small or no windows, trellis or even french doors would be better on the elevation facing the house Not inventive and not an improvement.

Dear David,

The proposals have been revised again, to reduce the size of the outbuilding, reduce the size of the glazed openings and install a green roof instead of a hedge in front. I just wanted to check whether you still have no objections given the revisions?

Kind regards,
