These trees also provide one of the only resources of nature to residents living in the area, which is otherwise very built up. A similar planning application a few years ago resulted in other mature trees in the same area being needlessly destroyed, because they were cut down and then the planning application fell through, so these trees are already incredibly precious. Replacing mature trees with saplings is not a viable alternative because they don't offer anywhere near the resources that mature trees do. If this application were to be approved, it would have a detrimental effect on local people and wildlife.
