Hi planning team,

It would be a mistake to remove the trees now, when a plan is being formulated to enable the trees and nearby buildings to co-exist in harmony.

The trees form a local ecosystem for birds and wildlife.

We have technology and ability to save these trees as the London Eye for locals looking at them from houses and flats, for London visitors, for children attending St George Primary School which is 200m away from the trees.

We have to support our nature and our history in this nature. These trees saw so much of London and our history. Let these trees witness our humanity.

Thank you,
