Design notes:

The trellis has been constructed of 38 x 20mm (or similar size) Siberian Larch battens set at 6mm gaps. The battens are set in 'stretcher bond' which breaks up the joints between batten layers, giving a more attractive effect than if the joints were all lined up.

The rhomboid shaped addition is requested to be added as the neighbours new steps have subsequently been found to have an elevated brick landing at their base which causes overlooking of the garden of No 1, The Old Orchard when the steps are used. The addition would be constructed in exactly the same manner as the original trellis and using the same materials. The top finish edging would be reshaped to flow along the new trellis segment, giving the same neat finish.
