

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2022/2021/P	Guilherme Brafman	15/06/2022 10:21:14	COMMNT	As there are no public documents it is impossible to know the details of the application so how is a proper consultation possible? All rights reserved in respect of this failure! Architectural consistency is of the essence in the Chalcot Estate. These premises form part of the Elliott Square estate. Planning permission was granted for the erection of an additional floor To the houses on the inside of the square which backs on to King Henry's road. Those houses have a particular architectural finish with stepped fronts and backs and the materials used for surface cladding. If planning consent is conditional on adoption of exactly the same architectural design, then I have no objections. In any other case, I object in the strongest terms possible to the resulting crenellated look where in effect a single protruding tooth will be erected in the middle of an otherwise homogenous terrace. It is bad enough that an additional floor is being built, but if that is to happen, please let it be on a sensible and consistent basis which will not bastardise the integrity of the whole idea of townhouses in a square.
2022/2021/P	Guilherme Brafman	15/06/2022 10:21:12	COMMNT	As there are no public documents it is impossible to know the details of the application so how is a proper consultation possible? All rights reserved in respect of this failure! Architectural consistency is of the essence in the Chalcot Estate. These premises form part of the Elliott Square estate. Planning permission was granted for the erection of an additional floor To the houses on the inside of the square which backs on to King Henry's road. Those houses have a particular architectural finish with stepped fronts and backs and the materials used for surface cladding. If planning consent is conditional on adoption of exactly the same architectural design, then I have no objections. In any other case, I object in the strongest terms possible to the resulting crenellated look where in effect a single protruding tooth will be erected in the middle of an otherwise homogenous terrace. It is bad enough that an additional floor is being built, but if that is to happen, please let it be on a sensible and consistent basis which will not bastardise the integrity of the whole idea of townhouses in a square.
2022/2021/P	Guilherme Brafman	15/06/2022 10:21:09	COMMNT	As there are no public documents it is impossible to know the details of the application so how is a proper consultation possible? All rights reserved in respect of this failure! Architectural consistency is of the essence in the Chalcot Estate. These premises form part of the Elliott Square estate. Planning permission was granted for the erection of an additional floor To the houses on the inside of the square which backs on to King Henry's road. Those houses have a particular architectural finish with stepped fronts and backs and the materials used for surface cladding. If planning consent is conditional on adoption of exactly the same architectural design, then I have no objections. In any other case, I object in the strongest terms possible to the resulting crenellated look where in effect a single protruding tooth will be erected in the middle of an otherwise homogenous terrace. It is bad enough that an additional floor is being built, but if that is to happen, please let it be on a sensible and consistent basis which will not bastardise the integrity of the whole idea of townhouses in a square.