I've been a resident of London for over 30 years and love this idea! I've seen Kings Cross improve dramatically during this time and am excited by the possibility of its integration with Camden thanks to this development. I am also a fan of enlivening disused spaces, walking and providing nurturing plants and trees for the residents of an area that does not benefit from much green. I've witnessed how the New York City High Line has improved and vitalized the areas it spans attracting visitors and revenue. I very much hope that Camden will support this so residents and businesses alike can benefit from it.
