Hi

We live directly opposite the west side of Camden Gardens and can see the buttress end of the disused lines which are becoming progressively overgrown and a graffiti eyesore. At present the railway arches within Camden Gardens are almost exclusively used for unsavoury activities examples of which we won't share with you now. So the proposals for the arches can only enhance and improve the gardens manifold. We are long term residents of Camden and proud of how Camden Council and their planning teams have allowed and guided the adaption of Victorian industrial architecture into modern day retail and leisure. And this highline will be the perfect link between two jewels being Coal Drops Kings Cross and Camden stables market. We really hope this goes through.
