

Job Profile - Communications Manager

Job Title: Communications Manager

Job Grade: Level 4, Zone 2

Salary Range: £42,687 - £49,515

About Camden

At Camden, we're working closely with our communities to build a better, fairer borough for everyone, and to make sure that nobody gets left behind. Since the start of the pandemic, Camden's extraordinary community spirit has shone through and our communities have pulled together to support each other. As we continue to live with COVID-19, it's crucial that we continue to do everything we can to work with and support our communities - and this is especially important as we work to deliver the ambitions of We Make Camden - our recently published vision for the borough. In this role, you will deliver communications for our Supporting Communities directorate working across a range of services and priorities for the council, working as part of our Communications service

About the role

We have an exciting opportunity for an experienced Communications Manager to join the Communications team at Camden Council. In this role, you will deliver high quality campaigns that support our top priorities and our strategic plan for the borough, Camden 2025. We're looking for a creative and innovative professional to create and deliver a range of targeted, multi-channel, evidence-based communications projects. You will take ownership of specific areas of council communications for our Supporting Communities directorate including climate emergency/Investment, inclusive economy, employment and supporting high streets, parks and green spaces, culture and arts and much more. This role may also work on other priority issues as and when needed. Within your areas of responsibility, you will manage a comprehensive forward plan of activity. You will be expected to define priorities, set objectives and negotiate resources for time-limited projects and manage the workload.

The role's responsibilities and outputs will include:

- Ownership of specific areas of the Communications Strategy; and, a comprehensive forward plan of activity for their areas of responsibility

- High quality, evidence-based communications plans to meet the needs of the organisation, and reporting tools to show the impact and benefits of communications activity.
- Building and maintaining strong relationships with senior managers and service based colleagues, and professional expertise in order to deliver a comprehensive communications service.
- Management and leadership skills which contribute to a high performing communications team, and the ability to negotiate priorities and resources for their areas of responsibility
- Taking an account management approach to managing time and resources and having clear service standards in place and being met
- Acting as the main point of contact for external partners as appropriate.
- Actively seeking to develop new partnerships and opportunities for communications services.

About you

You will have a degree-level qualification or equivalent work experience. To succeed in this important role in our communications team you will need to have strong writing skills, an excellent understanding of communications channels (including digital, media and marketing skills) and experience of targeting audiences effectively. You will be able to confidently demonstrate how you have evidenced, targeted, delivered and evaluated campaigns and communications activity. You will also have experience managing budgets and assigning resources to projects, and you will be comfortable and confident engaging with senior internal and external stakeholders. You will have experience of working in high-pressure situations, including crisis communications, as well as political awareness and sound judgement.

Work Environment:

The Communications service is based at 5 Pancras Square where all staff work in an agile way in-line with Camden's move to a paperless and flexible work environment. The role may co-locate with services when working on specific projects or campaigns.

The post holder will be required to participate in an out of hours emergency planning rota and may be required to attend weekend and evening meetings.

People Management Responsibilities:

The role will not have direct line management responsibility; however, they will have oversight of staff working on specific projects to make sure communications work is delivered to a high standard, on time and to budget.

The role will be expected to embrace the ethos of a self-managed team, where resources are used flexibly to deliver agreed priority areas of work.

The role will be expected to define priorities, set objectives, allocate work strands and negotiate resources for time-limited projects and manage the workload. The post holder will agree resources with the Head of Strategic Communications / Senior Communications Manager, and then oversee the work of staff drawn from the flexible matrix operating model.

The role will contribute towards sharing and developing knowledge within the team.

Relationships:

The role reports to the Senior Communications Manager.

The post holder will be expected to plan and prioritise work in their areas of responsibility and to negotiate the required resources with the Head of Strategic Communications / Senior Communications Manager, and also with colleagues in directorates.

The role will be required to work directly with and give strategic communications advice to senior managers including the chief executive and elected members including the Leader of the Council and Cabinet Members.

The role will have oversight of the work of other colleagues in Communications such as temporarily assigned project team members located in the core matrix.

The role may be required to represent the Council at external meetings with partners, community groups and professional bodies such as CIPR and London Councils.

Over to you

We're ready to welcome your ideas, your views, and your rebellious spirit. Help us redefine how we're supporting people, and we'll redefine what a career can be. If that sounds good to you, we'd love to talk
