Dear Nathaniel Young,

We are the attached, next-door neighbours of this applicant, and as with the earlier application for these top floor balustrades, we were never contacted about this application. There are no signs posted near to the applying house, and it is only because I was across the road that I happened to notice one there. To our further frustration, comments were only accepted until July 3, hence my need to contact you by email.

I'm sure that this is not due process. Please confirm if due process would require that attached neighbours like us are contacted directly. Thank you.

As with the earlier application for the balustrades, it must be made clear that these proposed balustrades will give our neighbours direct view into our top floor and the bed there. This intrusion on our privacy is unacceptable.

Please confirm that this complaint has been received and will be closely considered before any decision is made. Don't hesitate to contact us on any of the contact details below if a direct conversation would be more appropriate given the time that has passed.

Sincerely,

James
