The Travelodge building is an eyesore on what could be a wonderful atmospheric part of inner London. This means the proposal for the building to replace it is totally unacceptable. We have some lovely heritage building and the proposal is simply too big and bulky. In addition the great buildings on West Central and Museum Street are a real part of the heritage of the area and would be wonderful business premises, as they once were.

I am lucky enough to live in Bury Place, which has not lost its heritage street views. Please don't destroy everyone's view and cause us years more misery whilst the building work takes place - we have already had years of that!
