OBJECTION

I am writing to object to the revised application per above.

Why would Camden allow a developer to demolish an ugly building (with all the dust, noise, disruption) only to build an even uglier - but even more importantly - taller building? The existing building could instead be reimagined and brought up to modern standards and made good use of, even for so much needed social housing

The Council should be the protector of the old buildings within the conservation area of West Central and Museum Street. And at the same time, having an eye to establishing more, not less, social housing within the area. We do not need any more office blocks (check out how many hundreds, if not thousands, of offices remain empty) nor luxury flats for overseas investors. Save the concrete, steel and energy required to build this and help protect the environment and do not set a precedent for others wishing to build tower blocks in the area.
