As you know this station building is Grade I listed and although the internal finishes have been substantially changed historically the original floor plan and structural elements are of high significance in terms of the historic fabric and architectural character. The basement is of lower significance than the ground, first and second floors however it is still an integral part of the Grade I building and important nonetheless.

In the main the proposals appear generally acceptable although there is concern about the removal of the wall between what is currently the cold store and the freezer to create the chilled stores. The wall your drawings show as being removed, is in the category considered important. In addition to which there may well be structural implications involved with the removal of this section of wall. I believe this section could have been the location of an original cooking range although this may need confirming. There are the same concerns around the proposed removal of the wall between the Uniform Store and the COSHH Store. The partition wall may not be of significance however the solid wall raises the same concerns as above.

You may know that the central corridors of the Western Range are constructed of huge slabs of York stone and any works that might impact on the structural stability of these stones should be totally avoided.

In general the removal of sections of original brick wall including the enlarging of door openings should be considered with sensitivity and may not be considered acceptable in that it would be harmful to the historic or architectural significance of the building. Should this be the case any formal listed building consent application to the planning authority would be unlikely to have our support as it would be contrary to Camden Policy D2.

I suggest that you research the Conservation Plan document that John McAslan Architects produced in 2005 as part of the listed building consent submission back in 2006, reference 2006/3387/P – Part 2 page 4 has the historic floor plans of all floors although the reproduction is a little blurred. The document can be found on Camden's Planning web site. You will find there are historic floor plans within the document which would be helpful in informing your design.

I confirm that these works would require a formal listed building consent application to the Planning Authority and that the scheme will need to be revised in light of my comments before it can be fully supported.

Note: Since receipt of the above advice the sketch scheme proposed under pre-application advice application 2022/1797/NEW has been amended to address the above feedback received.

Authority Employee/Member

With respect to the Authority, is the applicant and/or agent one of the following:

- (a) a member of staff
- (b) an elected member
- (c) related to a member of staff
- (d) related to an elected member

It is an important principle of decision-making that the process is open and transparent.

For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.

Do any of the above statements apply?
