Hi Both

Thank you for coming back so promptly.

Nick, the tree is alive which is why I thought there may have been some misunderstanding with the previous applications.

The tree T10 is suppressed by T11 with a lean low at the base and close to the internal, and boundary wall. Its removal will allow more space for T11 to develop, which is an appropriate distance from the property to grow to a natural mature size without significant need for remedial pruning.

T10 is the tree closest to the internal wall, growing in front of T11.

Kind regards
Shaun
