

Image submitted as part of the application and appearing in the design and Access Statement. The bricks are described as, “...pale bricks of subtle elegance, blending with the neighbouring white and London stocks facades, while evoking the sandy colours of the clay flasks.”

Proposed brick: Vandersanden 038A0: The proposed bricks are hand formed stocks with a sanded-coating and grained structure. Manufactured by Vandersanden using a mix of different kinds of clay, the most important being Löss, a loam of Aeolian origin dating from the Ice Age